Module 1 Leadership, Mentoring & Employee Development

A key element of leadership in the 21st Century is personal development for both team leaders and team members. Personal development is a necessary component of a company's efforts to improve quality, retain key employees, and meet the challenges of a global workplace. The developmental interpersonal interactions between employees or between managers and employees sets the stage for mutual growth and positive individual and organizational outcomes.

In Leadership, Mentoring & Employee Development, program participants will reflect upon their own leadership and mentoring styles, and learn about the diversity in development approaches, and assess their own strengths and styles as a coach/mentor, through group exercises and role plays, theoretical frameworks, and case study analyses.

Dates : 20 & 21 February 2020, from 9:30 am to 5:30 pm

Topics Covered

Day 1: Identifying leadership preferences • Understanding Developmental Needs & Styles

Day 2: Reframing Employee Development • Benefits and Costs of Employee Development

Module 2 Design Thinking

The most innovative companies in the world know how to successfully navigate the challenge of developing new ideas, solutions, and products and managing the successful implementation of these innovations. Innovation requires finding original insight, skillfully translating these insights into testable prototypes, and carefully combining and refining prototypes into an innovative solution. To this end, innovative companies such as Samsung, Dropbox, Apple, Pixar and the San Francisco Opera will be examined to understand real-world application of using a design thinking approach to innovation, as well as the Customer Contact Center at Toyota (Japan), B2B Customer Engagement at 3M (US), Scaling Design Thinking Competency at Intuit (US), Industry Collaboration in Financial Services amongst Retail Banks (France).

Participants will also be introduced to the notion of sticky ideas and how to effectively pitch their newly discovered innovations and new ideas to their sponsors or key stakeholders. This module will integrate a hands-on exercise for best results through actionable learning.

The goal of the Design Thinking approach to identifying value creation opportunities.

Design thinking is a systematic approach to creative problem-solving to generate new solutions that are better than the best solutions today. Design thinking involves three stages: finding the right problem, generating a good variety of possible solutions to the problem, deciding which solutions to develop into the best possible solution.

Dates : 16 & 17 March 2020, from 9:30 am to 5:30 pm

Topics Covered

Module 4 Marketing Strategy

This session introduces the fundamentals of brand management and how they are practiced today. Although implementation of marketing programs is undergoing a massive transformation from conventional to digital media, the underlying principles of consumer driven marketing remain essentially the same; we will discuss how to build strong brands and how great marketing, including digital marketing, is driven by a sound understanding of consumer segmentation and distinctive product benefits. We will also discuss pricing biases that influence consumer perceptions, and the rules that help business adapt their pricing strategies and monetize innovation.

The module will also examine digital marketing strategy, implementation and executional considerations for B2C and B2B brands and provides a detailed understanding of all digital channels and platforms. The course will develop a strategic framework for planning and analyzing digital marketing strategies.

Module 5 Innovative Business Models

Google, Facebook, Apple, Amazon, Uber, and Airbnb all have something in common. They operate digital platform business models. The rules of doing business are radically different from the ones used by traditional businesses. As most platforms operate asset-light business models, they can scale businesses at an unprecedented pace. In just a few years, many industries have been reshaped by the emergence of platforms. More than ever, it is a necessity for executives to understand the fundamentals of platform thinking.

Innovative Business Models aims at equipping participants with the latest thinking, concepts, and tools to design platforms business models and ecosystem strategies. A number of successful business cases from different industries will be discussed. The sessions will be interactive with hands-on exercises.

- Testimonials -

"I learned a method to organize my thoughts, for example, I can use framework of business planning in my job to consider ideas. I also feel more confident in Finance.

Cross-learning among the participants from different industries was very beneficial. We still stay in contact."

Kei NARUMI, GMP2019 participant

Product Manager, Marketing, Mikado Kyowa Seed CO.,LTD

"Each module takes 2 days which gave us enough time to deepen the topic.

Especially, I found Design Thinking module very interesting, the way how lecturer teach was great!"

Junko AKIYAMA, GMP2019 participant

Director-General Manager, Business Support Development, Nichifutsu Boeki K.K.

"There is a good mix of participants. The participants of GMP consist of half Japanese and the other half non-Japanese, which I liked the most.

Digital has changed everything. So, to update your understanding especially on strategy and marketing, I think GMP is a good place to learn quickly"

Tastuya FUJIEDA, GMP 2018 participant

Head of Human Resources and General Affairs, Group SEB Japan Co. Ltd

"What I liked the most in the Global Manager Program is very good tutors, very interesting contents set up, plus also I think the size of the class is very good."
